The Air France Head Office is located at 45 Rue de Paris, 95747 Roissy-Charles de Gaulle, France, situated directly within the complex of its primary global hub, Paris-Charles de Gaulle Airport (CDG). This strategic location underscores the airline's deep integration with its main operational base, facilitating seamless coordination between executive leadership and day-to-day flight activities. As the flagship carrier of France and a founding member of the SkyTeam alliance, this office serves as the central command for the airline's global network, financial strategy, marketing, and the management of its Flying Blue loyalty program. It is also the operational heart of the Air France-KLM Group, the parent company formed by the merger with KLM Royal Dutch Airlines. While the corporate office focuses on high-level administration, strategy, and business-to-business relations, it is not open to the public for passenger services. Customers are directed to Air France's extensive digital platforms—its website and mobile app—or its global contact centers for bookings, support, and inquiries. The Roissy-CDG location symbolizes Air France's identity as a cornerstone of European aviation, driving innovation and connectivity from one of the world's most prominent airline hubs.
