Hello everyone, I have been trying to keep up with lectures, part time work, and family responsibilities, and now several assignments are due within the same week. Even with a study schedule, it feels like there are not enough hours to finish everything properly. During a discussion with other students, I noticed do my assignment was a phrase that appeared in conversations from people expressing how overwhelmed they felt during busy academic periods. What has helped you stay organized and complete assignments without falling behind?
